THE MASTER'S CIRCLE

The Master's Circle is an important and distinguished symbol of Queen's College's philanthropic heritage and its exciting future. It is a group of alumni, parents and friends who share a common belief in maintaining the College as a leading institution for collegiate university education.

The financial support of members of the Master's Circle ensures that Queen's continues to strive for excellence and innovation.

Thank you – your support makes the difference.

Membership Benefits

As a member you will benefit from a unique relationship with Queen's and you will receive invitations to a number of cultural, intellectual and social occasions celebrating and honouring all those who are making a difference to our students' lives.

These events will provide members of the Master's Circle with an opportunity to interact with the Master, the Deans, residents and fellow donors.

Message from the Master

'Our College was built by the bold vision of the men and women who came before us. We have all greatly benefited through our association with Queen's, whether we attended personally or are current or past parents or friends. The Master's Circle recognises significant generosity from our community and aims to promote further philanthropy. As the eighth master of Queen's, I am proud to lead this circle of donors.'

Dr Stewart Gill OAM

Message from the Patron

'As patron of the Master's Circle, I am delighted to support this important part of the College's community. I believe strongly in the role of Queen's at the University of Melbourne, which greatly supported me during my own time as a medical student. The impact your financial support makes to the College and the student experience is beyond measure, including enrolment of the best students who, due to their financial circumstances, may not otherwise be able to attend.'

Megan Robertson (1980, Medicine, Fellow of the College)
